

Bikepark Špičák

Resort description

Špičák in Šumava has made its mark on the Czech bike park scene and its high-level course can be a model for newly emerging bike parks.

In 2006, experienced trail-builders Tomáš Lučan and Tomáš Procházka were scouting the local ski slopes and forests. By 2007, the first freeride track leading from the top of the mountain opened. Since then, it has been regularly modified and new tracks with higher difficulty are formed, which is a pleasant exception to the trend of making routes easier. The Struggle trail has been hosting IXS European Downhill for many years now. Špičák Bikepark is the only Czech bike park that belongs to the group of European bike parks where a single all-season Gravity Card ticket is valid. The area also attracts bikers because of its complete area services and the nearby German bike park Geisskopf, only about 40 kilometres away from Železná Ruda.
